Those folks are serious; they want their money back.

Don't think that it was bad strategy by the generals.

God affirms the parent's role (2) saying, I have called you by name; you are mine.

God wants his people to know that God is sovereign over all, even great empires (2).

God will not forget or neglect his children.

In their restored status before God, they await the Promised One (2) who brings the end of the age.

Does Jesus tell John the Baptist, “Oh, I'm sinless”?

Jesus was no different, that is, until the Spirit of God descended.

That mission and purpose was bound up in the ancient promise to reconcile the broken promise occurring in the Garden of Eden.

We have two stories that remind us that God promises and God delivers.

God does not forget; God does not fail.
