Typically we all live inside a box or bubble of our own definition.

Can we be dislodged off the treadmill?

Their liberation, courtesy of the Persians, is before them.

They had adjusted their needs in life to form an exile lifestyle (2).

Isaiah seeks to turn back the curtain of illusion.

This was the prodigal son (2) story, centuries before it was known as a Jesus saying.

Jesus gets told about a tragedy, some juicy gossip (2).

The gossipers were delusional as many of God's faithful can be.

You see, we're the barren trees (2).

Yet our faithfulness is stunted.

Typically, we pursue a worthless charade.
