It's a word or a concept that is rather science fiction (2) in its nature.

... Inventor and futurist Ray Kurzweil (2) seems to have popularized the notion.

This gravitational energy redefines time, light, space, and matter.

Their standard line of introduction was, *We are the Borg.

This story is the last of what are regarded as “pre-history” narratives.

This would revolutionize all construction and design.

They've gotten this far because of their exploitation of singularity.

There is real foreboding in that comment.

We can understand listening as spiritual activity.

It stands opposite the singularity.

God made us different and made us good.
