The world is threatened by a monstrous power which everyday humanity is powerless to overcome.

People crave a super-hero who will break through the unsolvable with superhuman power.

Despite all these obstacles, many teachers will not give up.

He comes to conquer and commands respect.

First, they have to get over themselves (2).

Notice that Jesus doesn't " heal " the man at first.

Jesus throws down the rhetorical gauntlet.

The tax collector is in his own category of loathing.

Jesus has no qualms about dining with this rabble.

Do those who are so righteous even understand the nature of sinfulness in the eyes of God?

That's exactly what we see happening in Jesus' encounters with the righteous religious.

Put on your cape; it's time to fly into action.
